Caring for those who are isolated
Soigner les plus isolés

Adonis is a medical student from Cameroon. Wherever he goes, whether it is Togo, Morocco, or elsewhere in the world, he is determined to reach out to the most isolated populations: “I want to go to remote areas so I can volunteer my time and help people get through difficult situations.” Here, he shares with us his experiences in the Philippines in the wake of Typhoon Haiyan. This island was badly damaged by the typhoon... the majority of the survivors were unable to get to the aid centres as they could not pay for the boat trip.

Adonis M., Philippines - Letter 86 - 2014